no major side effects have been reported by pregnant or nursing women taking savella; even so, it is advisable to let your doctor know about these situations before taking the drug her picture that she used for her nerium picture looked great but the candid shot that i just saw of her was another story administered at a time) and the number of administrations per day will depend on the mode of administration,