they seldom remember the good, but they always remember the evil. The good doesn't usually make news, but the evil always hits the headlines. Fame is fickle and triumph is only transitory.

The research and experience thus far indicates that mobile application technology has the capability to support the social worker-client relationship.